

Dr. Jennifer Rumbold

Dr. Jennifer Rumbold joined the staff at Marshall Veterinary Clinic in April of 2016. To better serve our clients and patients, she began seeing appointments during our mornings regularly located for surgical procedures and continues to do so today.

Dr. Rumbold completed her undergraduate studies with a Bachelor of Animal Science in Animal Science at Cornell University in 1994. She received her Veterinariae Medicinae Doctoris from the University of Pennsylvania in 1999.

Before joining the Marshall Veterinary Clinic Team, Dr. Rumbold followed her husband's Air Force career by working as an Associate Veterinarian Warrensburg, Missouri, Barksdale AFB, Louisiana and Minot, North Dakota. During her 20 years of experience, she has been licensed in seven different states. Dr. Rumbold's interests include: preventative medicine, diagnostic and therapeutic protocols, periodontal procedures and soft tissue surgery for small animal patients. She has a special interest in fear free patient care as well as pain management. Dr. Rumbold's broad range of experience, tender touch and service-above-self attitude make her a tremendous asset to our Marshall Veterinary Clinic Team.

When she is not at work, you can find her being a full-time taxi driver and super MOM! She is also a pet parent to two Golden Retrievers named Charlie and Lilly (who she adopted from Turkey). She is an expert cake decorator and cook, as well as party planner extraordinaire. In her past life, she might have even played Rugby!
